STONE HILTON EXPANDS FIRM WITH THE ADDITION OF GOVERNMENT RELATIONS

May 13, 2024

AUSTIN - Today, Stone Hilton, PLLC, announced the addition of their government relations branch led by long-time policy veteran Ryan Fisher, as Director of Government Relations.

“Bringing in Fisher to join the firm was the right call,” said Judd Stone, founding partner of Stone Hilton. “He’s well known around the capitol network and will apply his extensive political acumen to our firm’s vision.”

“I’ve known Ryan for years, since our time at the attorney general’s office. I trust him and we’re excited to have him back, and on our team,” said Chris Hilton, founding partner of the firm.

Ryan Fisher is a veteran Texas capitol staffer. He began his capitol tenure in 2006 with the Texas House of Representatives. Since then, he has served in increasingly senior positions in the Texas Senate, and most recently in Executive Administration at the Office of the Attorney General as Director of Government Relations.

“Some opportunities are too good to pass up,” said Ryan Fisher. “Stone Hilton is perfectly positioned to seamlessly provide the turnkey service that clients demand. Big law results with a boutique touch, Stone Hilton has the experience, pedigree and connections to deliver whatever their clients need.”

In addition to his government relations expertise, Mr. Fisher has been called upon to step into many niche roles in high profile cases. From providing state representation in federal agency rule-makings, to his instrumental role bringing the Global Opioid Settlement to a successful resolution, to repairing a state agency program in distress, Mr. Fisher has repeatedly proven his worth in strategy and implementation.

With close to 20 years in and around the capitol in a variety of senior-level staff positions, Fisher has the knowledge, expertise and relationships to meet any policy need.

More news to come as Stone Hilton will make additional announcements in the near future.
