June 23, 2026

FORT WORTH — Stone Hilton PLLC has announced the opening of its new office in Fort Worth, Texas. The office allows Stone Hilton to better serve the Dallas-Fort Worth region, which has emerged as one of the nation's most dynamic markets and become a new center of gravity for financial services and healthcare institutions.

The new office is managed by partner Noah Schottenstein, who also leads the firm's Investment Disputes and Special Situations practice group. "The DFW region is one of the fastest growing metros in the country and has become the second-largest financial services hub in the country," said Noah. "Our office highlights the firm's commitment to strategic growth in key practice areas and in markets with national or international reach. The demand for highly specialized legal counsel has never been greater."

Prior to joining Stone Hilton, Noah co-led the global investment funds disputes practice at an international law firm and is widely known for his expertise in handling high-stakes investment disputes, government enforcement, and restructuring matters.

"This is one of the most exciting markets in Texas, with a business community that values trusted counsel and decisive advocacy," said Judd Stone, Chairman at Stone Hilton. "Opening this office allows us to be closer to our clients and provide the strategic, trial-ready representation they need when the stakes are highest."

The opening of the Fort Worth office marks Stone Hilton's third location, following the firm's recent expansion into Houston.

The Fort Worth office is located at 301 Commerce St., Suite 2360, Ft. Worth, TX 76102.

More news to come as Stone Hilton will make additional announcements in the near future.
